The Language Resource Center at York College vigorously supports the teaching and learning of Foreign Languages, ESL, World Literature, Humanities and Women Studies.

The Language Resource Center provides students, faculty and staff with a state-of-the-art Computer Laboratory equipped with multimedia facilities. Our technology-based resources help facilitate our mission in providing an excellent learning and teaching experiences.

Services

All department courses are scheduled for at least one hour lab session a week. Hence all our students are given the opportunity to utilize technology-based resources which will prove helpful in preparing students to the workforce.

Tutoring Center

The Language Resource Center's Tutoring Center is located at AC-3D05. We provide academic assistance in to all students for FREE. Students can seek tutoring services in Chinese, ESL, French and Creole, Italian and Spanish. Also, students can benefit from the drop-in hours we provide for our student to come and use the Computer Lab facilities. We offer walk-in and tutoring sessions.

ESL/ELL Writing Center

The Language Resource Center employs a qualified ESL tutor who is available four days a week to help students with their writing. Students may present an assignment from an instructor and work with the tutor to come up with ways to fulfill that assignment; students may go over an essay that has already been marked by an instructor to understand where the problems lie; or students may work with the tutor on specific grammar concerns. This service is available to current and former ESL students, including those enrolled in English 125. Faculty from the ESL Discipline are also available to advise faculty in other departments and Writing Center tutors dealing with non-native speakers.
