

I had just arrived to the exam and just put my name on my exam when they checked my borrowed calculator & they took it away because there was writing on it due to this they escorted me out and told me I could not take my exam.

It is not my calculator it is someone's who had ~~taking~~ an extra before taking the exam I should have checked it but I was already late & I had to borrow it because I only had a graphing calculator & did not want to buy a new one for just one exam.

I just slid the calculator of the lid.
