

Kemba Lodescar – Class of 2017
Grades 1-6

My name is Kemba Lodescar and I am a proud Summa Cum Laude graduate of the 2017 graduating class in Education, (Bachelors in Music Education). I currently teach theatre at P.S 108Q where I service students from grades K-5. I thoroughly enjoy impacting the lives of students in ways that allow them to hone their innate abilities to express themselves confidently and prepare them for their journey beyond the classroom. York college has prepared me to do just that by imparting solid pedagogical practices and embracing the ability to reach all students with an emphasis on differentiation to meet their varying needs. York college has also prepared me for the practical side of education, by placing experienced and equipped mentors that worked closely with me, to steer me in the right direction while giving me the freedom to express myself as a teacher in my own unique ways. For prospective students who are contemplating attending the program, you need look no further. York's education division has a dedicated team that will provide you with knowledge, support, the practical and they offer the most current and cutting edge courses that would equip you for the classroom and beyond depending on your area of specialization.
